Description

Healthy, light and flawless cooking – the heat of the embers wraps and “seals” the surface of the food: juices and mineral salts are retained within, enhancing the natural taste and flavor while keeping its softness intact, without the risk of carbonizing the food as in open-flame grills. Closed chamber is designed to convey only enough oxygen to keep the embers alive, avoiding the development of uncontrolled flames but guaranteeing an ideal and constant temperature during service. Hence the food quality is excellent – the food is perfectly cooked, healthy and light.
