Description

The Metos Berkel SCB936 is a fully automatic slicing machine designed for demanding professional use, offering a reliable and versatile alternative for high-volume restaurants and shops. The machine's advanced automation, well-designed ergonomic details and easy cleaning are suitable for intensive use, where the slicing machine is utilized in a variety of ways to slice various products. The body of the device is designed so that it does not have sharp corners that collect dirt and interfere with cleaning. Thanks to the open design and easily removable parts, the device is easy and quick to clean.

A precision-cutting blade with built-in sharpener, a product holder and a feed button ensure millimeter-accurate slicing results and help minimize product loss. Metos SCB936 offers an even cutting result even with products that offer a lower cutting resistance.
